

FROM SOUND TO MOTION

We compared sound technologies used in the past and today and realized the role of sound in our lives.

We observed that sound is transmitted through vibrations using the setup we built and experienced how sound can create motion.

You can explore how sound is transmitted at home with your child using simple materials (such as a cup-and-string telephone).

Stay curious and keep exploring science!

